HAVAS' AGENCY

Rome, 16th

Signor Sella accepts the task of forming a new Cabinet, but as he cannot count on a majority in the House, has asked the King to dissolve the Chambers, but it is said on good authority that His Majesty positively refuses to do so.

DEATH OF LORD BEACONSFIELD.

One of the most illustrious of contemporary British statesmen is no more. The Giroude's mails bring full confirmation of the death of Mr Disraeli, as announced by an unintelligible telegram, and, although we should have preferred to have awaited the entry of the Pacific steamer, due to-day, with the luminous obituary literature of the London Press, the possible misinterpretation of our silence compels us to treat on this subject, which has already sufficiently suffered from the handling of some of our colleagues.

The death of such a great man as Beaconsfield forms a species of political eclipse; his labours and his triumphs are all presented to a sorrowing world in a new phare the moment the coffin lid is screwed down; and many, who during his career were opposed to him and his policy, fling the pall over their political animosities at a moment so dread, and stand in mute respect, deploring the genius the world has lost and the bright star that has sunk for ever behind the horizon of British intellect.

In almost every book on our shelves is to be found the life of this great man, who so enriched the literature of his own and other countries. To summarize such a life is indeed an ambitious task, and, we fear, far beyond our poor abilities. Lord Beaconsfield's life is the history of his country, so identified is his name with all the great events of his time; and if in the minor details of many of his political measures the flag of his party is at times prominent, we cannot find a single measure that bears his name which, on a broad and comprehensive view, was not dictated for the welfare and aggrandizement of his country.

They say that no man is ever missed, and we have no doubt that Lord Beaconsfield's great genius will be inherited by some member of the party of which he was the leader and the ornament; nevertheless, there is a temporary void, a blank which we all momentarily feel, and which alone time and the ceaseless march of human affairs will remove.

The schedule of his life's events, which we give hereunder, is all the more remarkable when we deal with the extraordinarily brilliant times in which he flourished, and the men of surpassing talent he opposed and, we may well add, conquered. Yet the individuality of this statesman's life, great and marked as it is, shrinks to nothing in our admiration of the country and the institutions that led by the hand the humble attorney's clerk, from his desk and his parchment, to the pinnacle of earthly fame—the Premiership of Great Britain and Ireland. Great as is the statesman whose loss we deplore, still greater is the nation that bred him, and the Institutions that led him on; and, whilst we lay an 'immortelle' on the coffin of the hero, we place a wreath on our country's flag, enriched by his fame, on our country's institutions invigorated by his genius.

From the Paris papers just received we take the following:—

Lord Beaconsfield was only known as Disraeli until 1876; under the latter name he signed a series of brilliant novels, which shewed his eminent qualities as a writer, beginning with Vivian Grey and ending with Lothair. In the eminent man just departed we must not alone consider the profound and supple politician, the wily diplomatist, whose mind was so keen and fertile in resources—we all witnessed it at the Berlin Congress in 1878—we must also appreciate the delicate writer, the novelist, with his brilliant and everchanging imagination. Lord Beaconsfield always cherished his reputation as a writer, even when he occupied the highest posts in the British Kingdom. It is said he used to boast that literature was his only family title, whilst he was a simple press-gentleman.

Benjamin Disraeli was born in London in 1805; his father was an esteemed and distinguished literary man: investigations have shown him to be the grandson of an Italian merchant, established in London in 1750; he descends from a Jewish family, expelled from Spain by the Inquisition at the end of the 15th century. When he had finished his studies he was placed as a clerk in a solicitor's office, but his enterprising mind and energy were ill-suited for this monotonous and uniform occupation in law books. In 1826, scarcely 21 years of age, the librarian Murray entrusted him with the editorship of the Representative. This newspaper lasted six months and cost the publisher £20,000.

That very same year Vivian Grey appeared. In this novel the young author traces a rapid and striking picture of the morals and pretensions of the English aristocracy. He is biting, sarcastic and bold; its pamphlet character insured its success. It was a trial which won for him his fame.

He seized the golden opportunity and published successively Henrietta Temple, YoungDuke, Venezia, Ixion, Contalini Fleming etc. During this period he followed Montaigne's precept; he travelled to rub his brain against the brains of others. Between 1829 and 1831 he visited all the southern parts of Europe—Spain, Italy, Constantinople, Greece, then in a state of revolution, the Levant and Egypt.

On his return he thought the opportune moment had arrived to rush into the political arena, to which he felt his destiny was linked. Under patronage of radical Hume and of O'Connell, who presented him in 1832, he stood as candidate for Chipping Wycombe. He failed. Three years had elapsed, during which a radical change came over his ideas and he presented himself at Taunton as tory; in the impulse of his conversion he was not deterred from attacking his old patron the great O'Connell. The matter created much excitement: Disraeli wrote then to O'Connell the well known letter containing the line 'we will meet at Philippes.' During two years he wrote in the Times the celebrated Gunymede correspondence, attacking the Whig party.

At last in July 1837, M. Disraeli enters Parliament, as member for Maidstone. His first speech was a failure: but he very cooly turned on those who laughed with the words 'the day will come when you will listen to me.' Until 1846 he observed, what is called, the talent of silence. Meantime with Lord Manners and George Smith and some others he was busily occupied in constituting the young England party.

In 1844, during the debate on the Customs' Reforms, he pronounced a speech which bespoke a first-class orator. In the elections of 1847 he obtained the votes of Buckingham: in the ensuing year Lord Bentinck died, and the protectionists were obliged to entrust to Disraeli the reins of their party: they used to call him a novel writer, without title, means, or family. In this capacity, at the head of the party, he held his own against Whigs, Radicals, and Peelites: a motion he presented on the 11th February, 1851, to alleviate the distress of the agricultural population, was only thrown out by a small majority of 14.

In 1852 he entered the Derby Cabinet as Chancellor of the Exchequer: he was then 47 years of age. After three months' industry he presented to the new Parliament a financial bill which met with great applause and fierce attack. In December, 1852, the Cabinet went out, and the protectionist system fell with Disraeli.

Mr. Disraeli then reassumed his place amongst the chiefs of the opposition. In 1857 he joined the Radicals against Lord Palmerston's Chinese policy. Lord Palmerston went out, and Disraeli re-entered with the Derby Government, as Chancellor of the Exchequer: he maintained this post until December, 1859: the Cabinet had very few votes in Parliament.

In 1866 he again entered with the Derby Cabinet and took Mr Gladstone's post in the Exchequer. His first great political act was the Electoral Reform Bill, which was voted in 1867. In the first days of March 1868, Lord Derby retired and Disraeli became Prime Minister. He fell, through his resistance to the Church Reform Bill, supported by Mr Gladstone. In December 1868, Mr Gladstone formed a new Cabinet whilst the old one went out.

Since that day a contest of personal influences and political principles arose between the leaders of the Tory and Whig parties. Every question, whether of home or foreign policy, has been a battle-field where the two rivals tried their skill. The Franco-Prussian War led to most excited debates: Mr Gladstone maintaining a neutrality at 'outrance,' whilst Mr Disraeli attacked the policy which tended to isolate England from Europe. The Irish Education Bill proved a stumbling-block to the Gladstone Cabinet, and it fell in 1873.

Mr Disraeli would only form a new Cabinet after fresh elections, which took place in February 1874, and gave the Government a majority of sixty votes. Very grave questions awaited the new Government: the Bengal Famine: the unsettled state of Ireland: primary education: and the glowing embers of the Eastern Question threatening to set Europe in a blaze.

After the Prince of Wales's trip to India the Prime Minister moved that the title of Empress of India be conferred on the Queen, and he carried his motion in spite of a very bitter opposition on all sides. The Queen in return created him Earl of Beaconsfield in August 1876.

The acts of the Beaconsfield Cabinet are too fresh to need any further comment: we all yet vividly remember England's part in the Berlin Congress, the treaty with the Sublime Porte, the annexation of Cyprus, the policy in Afghanistan and in South Africa.

Meantime distant wars had disturbed the finances of the Government; Ireland clamored for reform, and the Eastern Question arose threatening as before. When Lord Beaconsfield decreed the new elections, the people were tired of his high-hand and adventurous policy, and they gave Mr. Gladstone their votes in April 1880.

Since then Mr. Disraeli appeared seldom in the House of Lords. He, nevertheless, took part in the discussion on the Irish Agrarian Bill, passed by the House of Commons and thrown out by the House of Lords. He also took part in the debate on the evacuation of Candahar, which terminated in a vote of censure against the Liberal Cabinet.

Lord Beaconsfield was Lord-Rector of the University of Glasgow, a title which was conferred on him on the 13th December 1873. On this occasion the chief of the Tories made a speech on equality before the law and its influence on the prosperity of nations.

He recently published his last work, 'Endymion,' and only a few days ago the indefatigable writer had begun to pen the first pages of another novel, when sickness interrupted his labours and rapidly hastened him to his grave.

THE CITY IMPROVEMENT WORKS.

The continuation of these works should claim as much attention as the amalgamation of the Provincial and National Banks: our city is each day becoming more populous; our streets, in some parts of the town and at certain hours of the day, are so crowded with traffic that one is reminded of streets in London, Paris, or New York: the city is growing as rapidly as the country and, if some timely steps are not taken to conclude our half-finished City Improvement Works, we may yet have occasion to deplore the delay. No period could be more favourable for the resumption of these works than at present, when everything smiles on the nation, and the period has been aptly term, ed Golden or Augustan. The Works when finished will give a handsome revenue, whilst to-day they give nothing; and, concurring as we do with the opinions expressed in the following article of the Nacion, we gladly translate and reproduce same:—

"We are about to make a serious assertion and are prepared to prove it—Never has any office of our administration issued a document so full of glaring errors as that which the Water Works Commissioners have just published with the conditions and estimates for bids for the Drainage Works.

"We have proofs as numerous and irrefutable as Truth itself, but, as it is impossible, in a single article, to deal with all the errors in the hundred and odd pages of the pamphlet, although we mean to point to them all in due course, we shall now confine ourselves to some few observations sufficient to convince the public that the Commissioners know nothing of what they are about, and that the absurdities contained in the publication we refer to are a disgrace to the country and a certain danger to the city.

"From a legal point of view, it asserts that it is in conformity with the estimates sanctioned in 1878, whereas it is in gross violation of them, suppressing some buildings which are indispensable for the success of the works, and adding others not authorised by the law, and which will cost several millions of dollars.

"From an economic point of view, it is a chaos. In each section indispensable details are suppressed, and it they are adopted after the works are finished they will cost a deal of money uselessly spent. For other works that will cost millions, and the extent of which cannot be fixed, a price is called for, not only for the unity of measure but for the whole work. Many technical works, under the charge of the directing engineer, and for which he will be paid commission, are also exacted from the bidders, thus paying twice for the same thing. The number of errors and contradictory data will force the contractors to enter into obligations on false bases, and the Commissioners will have to pay heavy indemnity.

"From the point of view of the success of the works, if they are built on the Commissioners' conditions, they will certainly prove a 'fiasco.' The main discharging sewer, which should run out to the south of Quilmes, will be unable to empty the sewage, and even if this were remedied it will not flow away, owing to difficulties that were not foreseen. Other omissions will render the drains useless in an important part of the city, and even if this were set right, at a great cost of time, money and the public health, there are still further mistakes that would leave us exposed daily to inundations of sewage.

"The attempt at an extra flow of pipe-water for flushing the sewers will also be a failure.

"From a common sense point of view this official publication is no laughing matter, but quite the reverse. In some places the works are to be finished in 20 months, under heavy penalties, and in others 3 and even 4 years are allowed. In one part a certain area is laid down for certain works, and in the very next page a greater area is stipulated for part of them and a lesser for the rest. In one part certain materials are to be supplied by the contractors, and in another it is said that the Commissioners are to provide them. It even goes to the length of calling for bids for works that are already built. Tenders are called for, in different pages, for the same work on different plans, incompatible with each other, and none of which are admissible.

"Let us cite an example of this latter blunder. The heavy machinery has to be erected on the beach at the Boca, to pump the sewage to the south of Quilmes: naturally such machinery will require a special building suitable for it. Nevertheless, instead of calling for tenders for such a building the Commissioners adopt as a model the little Water Works building at the Recoleta, and, for machinery more or less superficial, order foundations of 12 metres in depth to be dug! and, as if this absurdity were not enough, on pages 93 to 103 they again order the same building to be equal in size to that for more heavy pumping machinery, which has to be built at the Recoleta.

"Contradictory dimensions are thus stipulated for two different buildings, with the peculiarity that neither are in any way adapted for the work to be done,

"The foregoing is merely one of the many proofs we intend to afford the public of the unusual incompetence of those directing the great City Improvement Works. We do not at all consider that all the Commissioners are responsible for these errors, as we know how things are being managed; but, let the responsibility rest on whom it may, the broad fact remains—that the credit of the country, the money of the nation and the health of the city of Buenos Aires are being seriously tampered with.

LATEST FROM BRAZIL.

The Emperor is to inaugurate in May work on the Minas and Rio railway, several kilometers of which have been located on the original trace, besides making about 30 kilometers of road for the transport of the tunnel boring machinery.

The time for reciving tenders in Rio, Washington, London and Paris, for the concession of the Bage to Cacequy and Santa Maria da Boca do Monte to Cacequy railways in Rio Grande do Sul will close on the 15th of June. We understand that, besides what will be filed here, several will be presented in Europe, and that there is a probability of some U. States proposals.

The concessionaires of the Belem to Braganca, Para, railway, have declared their acceptance of the conditions imposed by the minister's despatch of March 6th and will proceed at once to make the necessary surveys and file proper plans.

The Canoa to Baturite branch of the Baturite railway has been shortened in the locating from 11.6 to 9.86 kilometers, and the number of works of art reduced from 35 to 26

Financial troubles are reported from the Bragantine railway in construction in S. Paulo, and on the 22d ult, there was a grave riot of the unpaid workmen of one of the sub-contractors, in which it is said three persons were killed and several wounded.

Their Majesties returned from Minas Geraes last night, after a trip of 36 days, almost wholly performed on horseback, and during which they were received with the utmost enthusiasm of spontaneous loyalty in every place through which they passed.

A letter from Uruguayana asserts that the soldiery, acting they say, under orders to quell the banditi of the district, have been arresting and lynching right and left in the southwest of the province of Rio Grande do Sul.

The Minister of Agriculture has announced his intention, as the state of the finances has improved, to apply to the next legislature for an appropriation in the Estimates of 1882-83, for an Immigrants' House in Rio, to receive and support for 8 days 40,000 spontaneous immigrants per annum, for the transport of 30,000 immigrants from Rio to their destination, for the acquisition of 53,000 acres of land near ways of communication in southern Brazil, and for the surveys of public lands and the making of roads to colonies. He has also declared that the government will not give further aid or make further subsidized immigration contracts.

Under date of the 22nd the Minister of Agriculture gave instructions to form plans and estimates of an Immigrants House to receive 50,000 persons annually for eight days. He also issued the following note to the Inspector-General of Lands and Colonization:—

"The resolve declared on the 7th April, 1880, had the result desired by this Ministry; it stayed the excessive expenditure the State was making on colonization and avoided the great deficit annually caused in the appropriation. Contrary to what might have been supposed, immigration has developed, notwithstanding the cessation of the direct assistance given until then to emigration hither. Now that the financial situation is improving, it has become proper to give commencement to the execution of the second part of that declaration and to complete the measure the Government judges right to adopt for the purpose of encouraging spontaneous immigration still more. Wherefore, I request you to include in the departamental budget you have to present to this Ministry, for the year 1882—83, the following services:—

"1st. A special credit for a building to receive 50,000 immigrants a year. The estimate I shall send you in time, having ordered the plan to be made of a building in a suitable place.

"2nd. The sum needed for at most 8 days' lodging of 40,000 immigrants, keeping in view that the service is to be effected by contract even after the building is ready.

"3rd. The transport of 30,000 immigrants from Rio to the provinces and localities of settlement.

"As regards this service it should be considered that 10,000 immigrants will remain in Rio or near it and in part will have gratuitous transport in steamers of the subsidized companies, as will be stipulated in renewals of contracts.

"4th. For the acquisition of lands along railways, roads and navigations.

"This item should be calculated according to the Bank of Brazil valuations, and the lands to be included in 1882-83 shall lie only on some of the ways of communication constructed, constructing or projected within the provinces of Rio Grande do Sul, Santa Catharina, Parana, S. Paulo, Minas Geraes, Rio de Janeiro and Espirito Santo. In that year it is intended to acquire five square leagues.

"5th. For the continuation of the survey and marking of public lands, and for the construction of colonial roads giving access to the surveyed lands, also for the maintenance of the Inspectorship-General of Public Lands and Colonization, whether under its present organization or, in accordance with the bill recently presented to the General Assembly, as a mere Land Department.

"Outside of these aids and of the sale of lands at long dates, the imperial Government will not grant anything, still less enter into new subsidized contracts, as it considers that, with the above favors and in view of the known facts, the definite solution of the problem of immigration may be expected.

"In thus completing the plan which it had laid down in regard to colonization, and which, to secure greater stability and full and steady execution, will be prescribed by a law, the government manifests its intention to encourage the emigration to Brazil of only colonists who, besides their labor, have sufficient means, in addition to the above aids, to meet their first needs."

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Things in general were rather slack yesterday. The banking projects in Congress have lost their charm, and there seems to be a rather general impression that they require rather extensive modification. To-day or to-morrow the Forced Currency Abolition Bill will be laid before Congress.

The weather looked decidedly like a change to rain yesterday. In the camp it is very badly wanted, as in many districts they have been drawing water for the sheep for several weeks past. The worst of it is, that rain now, followed by cold, would make terrific havoc amongst the newly born lambs.

The Umberto Primero brings dates from Gibraltar to 27th ult. The Czar has given orders to fortify the frontier with Germany and has prohibited all young men over 18 years of age to leave Russia. The Aunt of the Sun, Moon and Stars, in less metaphorical terms the Empress Regent of China, is dead. Dervis Pasha has given the Albanian insurgents a severe thrashing, killing 4,000 of them in a desperate battle.

Poor Peru is still on the 'descensus Averni.' Pierola has issued a proclamation intimating that the moment he catches the members of the new Government at Lima, he will make short work with every man of them. To make matters still more mixed, the old Congress of Prado's time has meet at Chorillos, and the fugitive Dictator will, no doubt, put a rod in pickle for them also.

The full strength of the Colon opera company has now arrived and the debut will be on Saturday. There are 70 first rate instrumentalists in the orchestra, led by the old Buenos Aires favourite Maestro Bassi.

A Sunday Rest agitation has been inaugurated in Chivilcoy by the clerks and shop-keepers' assistants of the town, who demand that the Municipality shall compel all the traders of the town to close their shops on Sunday and allow their employees a day of rest. The petitioners have our fullest sympathies in the matter. Although there are so many drones in the hive, the people who do the real work of the River Plate are overworked, far more so than in Europe. Wealth or the grave seems to be every man's motto here, and a very bad one it is, bringing those who adopt it far oftener to the latter than the former goal.

The 'hombre potrillo,' who has for some time past kept Almagro in hot-water after nightfall, and relieved several wayfarers of their ready cash, was captured on Sunday night by a posse of policemen who were on the watch for him, and his coltship is now in jail.

The first Agricultural Fair held in Santa Fe came off on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd inst., at the Pilar colony. It was a great success. Barley and bullocks, land and lambs, maize and 'mancarones', cheese and 'chacras'—all sold at good prices. The attendance from the neighbouring colonies was very large.

The Children's Service celebrated at the Scotch Church on Sunday last brought together a congregation of little ones and their parents and friends that filled the sacred edifice to the doors. The truly edifying demeanour and attention of the child congregation struck the beholders in a forcible manner. The Rev. Js. W. Fleming conducted the service, and too high praise cannot be given to this zealous young clergyman for initiating these Children's Services, which cannot fail to have a most beneficiel effect in the training of the children who assist at them.

There were 1,200 people at the Spanish 'romeria' in the Florida Gardens on Sunday last. The costumes of the different provinces of the land of hidalgos and romance, black eyes and perfect feet, of guitars and 'olla podrida' were very pretty and interesting. There will be a similar display on Sunday next.

The 'serenos' of Santa Fe have been sent about their business, as they sang the hours at night so frightfully out of tune that the people refused to pay any more taxes to support them.

A man named Fernandez was near being roasted alive some nights ago through leaving a lighted candle by his bedside. He snoozed off into the land of dreams, and awoke to find himself frying, if not in his own fat, at least in his own bed, which was in a roaring blaze under him. His piercing yells brought assistance, and the fire was put out; but he will probably be in bed for the next month, if he escape a trip to the Chacarita.

Just the thing. A quarry of beautiful stone has been discovered at Saldan, Cordoba. However, we don't fully understand how it is found in slabs or pillars 30 metres long, ready to be stuck up in a public plaza. This stone is just discovered in the nick of time for the new Capitol, new Cathedral etc.

A railway from Bahia Blanca straight to the city of San Luis, to connect it with the Andine Railway, is now on the tapis. English empresarios. This would bring the teeming products of the far Interior direct to the seaboard, without breaking bulk. The estimated cost of the line is £1,200,000 sterling—a mere feabite.

A sad case of two little English orphans is reported. Their parents lived in the Province of Salta, where their mother recently died. Their father then resolved to come to Buenos Ayres with them, but he fell sick on the road and died on the way to Tucuman. The mayoral of the diligence took pity on the little innocents (they are 9 and 6 years old, boys) and obtained them passage to Buenos Ayres in the train. When they reached the Central Station on Monday evening the desolate little travellers were taken in charge by a policeman, and at the Policia Commissary Naon kindly gave them a meal of tea and biscuits. They are now in the Asilo de Huerfanos. Their names are Emilio and Albert Brown.

The first competition for the Challenge Cup, presented to the Gun Club by Messrs. Pigon and Wilkes, was won on Sunday last by Mr. Isla, who used the 'Field' powder, manufactured by John Hall and Son. The same powder, we understand, is used by Mr. Scott, who has lately competed so closely with Dr. Carver the celebrated American marksman, and who is considered the champion pigeon shot in England.

The River Plate Telephone Co.—The definite works of this Company, formed by capitalists of New York, are now pushing ahead with the greatest activity. The adminstrative organization has also been commenced, and the construction of its lines and central office, situated in Calle Maipu No. 118 (property of Dr Esteves Saguí) which will have means to establish communications between three thousand or more subscribers. In two month's time there will be 350 stations in the city and suburbs, through Bell's Perfected Telephone. The perfection of this apparatus, the Exchange system, with the latest improvements to date in the United States, and the first class workmen who are employed, promise a true and exact service.

Dr Romero, our new Minister of Hacienda, turned the gold market to-day; his project, although not yet published, is known to a very influential circle and considered the best and most effective of all, and the safest and best step for the Government and Congress to take to abolish 'curso forsoso'. Associated with this project come the news that on the 20th instant the Provincial Bank will begin to discount pagares in gold, and some parties on 'Change had the news that telegrams had been sent to London to send out gold. Thus the market opened this morning under a tremendous pressure, and gold fell slap bang 15 cents on yesterday's prices; the differences between cash and time prices are so very wide that it is easy to read the opinion of the market, and the whole ring believes that next month the great break in gold will begin.

Very favorable news from abroad was received to-day; telegrams from New York announce that Mr Pealer has succeded in launching the Gualeguaycha and Concordia Railway, an enterprise that would find much favor, if instead of Concordia it ran to Parana.

Yesterday telegrams were received from London, giving hard dollars at 80½, and to-day fresh telegrams were received giving quotations 81, ex coupon, which at the present price of gold here is almost equal to par. It is generally thought that about the 8th of June, when the President's massage is published in London, Hard Dollars will be up to 83-90.

Gold opened at 28.75, and closed at 28.65 cash, 74,306 sold. For the end of the month over half a million sold, opening at 28.75, and closing at 28 55, sales for July and August at 28.30, sales of the day 1,636,306.

Cedulas rule very firm, and as the Prov. Bank now only allows 4 per cent on deposit, and the Cedulas give 8, many think the stock will go to a premium.

At after hours there was some fresh excitement caused by the news that telegrams had come from Paris to-day announcing that the General Bond for the Railway Loan was signed, and all the difficulties in the way of the loan finally removed. Very few had the news before a well known broker who managed to sell for June and July very heavy amounts of gold. The gold market closed at 28.50 for end of month and 28.55 sellers cash; the effect of the loan business, however, will only begin to tell on the market when the National Government begins to draw exchange, which they all say will be in these days. A very large amount of gold was sold after 3 o'clock at 28.55-50 for end of month, and 30,000 pats for July at 28.25; 100,000 for June offered at 28.30, no buyers.

National Bank Shares rule quiet but firm. 400 sold for end of month at 93½-¾, 200 for to-morrow at 93½, and 400 for June at 94½; market closed sellers.

Respecting the export by the Bank of all the old ounces, there is as yet but little known; we hold for to-morrow a statement which shows that the loss on the replacing them by sovereigns is only about 2 per cent.

At the Municipality to-day no 'quorum.' In the President's Chamber there was a scene, Dr Palacios having brought the papers to show that some 162,000 mje embargoed by the court in 1878, and about which there is still a suit pending, was paid away in April 1879, by Mr Perisena, the then President of the board; the affair is a most serious one and calls for explanation.

Capt. Haddock, of the Dago, was welcomed on 'Change, also Mr Louw who has arrived down from his trip to Mendoza. Mr Louw is visiting this country with a view to bring us over some new estancieros from the Cape of Good Hope.

A letter from Patagones, dated April 14th, states that up to the moment of writing no news had been received of the expeditionary force which left there on the 15th of March. It had rained heavily for two days, and frost was setting in. The Rio Negro was much lower than it had been for the last five years, but is rising, and if the flood continues, all hope of a good wheat crop must be lost. The camp round there is rather coarse, but higher up the river the pasturage is beautiful. Wheat at present fetches 105 m/c; wool 55 m/c. The merchants put their own prices on all articles they buy. A bank is badly wanted.

The mails from Europe bring the following:

"Lloyd's agent at Madeira telegraphed on Saturday that the Liverpool, Brazil, and River Plate Steam Navigation Co.'s steamer Newton struck on a rock off the East point of Madeira at 2 p.m. that day and became a total wreck. The Newton was an iron screw steamer, brig rigged, and registered 1,324 tons gross. She was built at Greenock in 1864. At the time of the accident she was homeward bound from Brazil, having left Rio Janeiro on the 9th of March for London. A later telegram from Lloyd's agent at Madeira states that the vessel hung amidships on Forecunner rock, with apparently no chance of being floated, full of water. Efforts would be made to save the cargo should the weather continue fine. The crew had been saved and a tug sent to prevent wrecking.

"There were 20 wrecks, of which 11 were British, reported during the past week, making a total of 948 for the present year, or an increase of 218 as compared with the corresponding period of last year. The approximate value of property lost was £5,500,000, including British £2,100,000. Seven vessels were lost off the coasts of the United Kingdom, and five were abandoned at sea. Only two lives were lost.

"The French barque Marie Therese, from Mauritius for Montevideo, put into Table Bay on the 8th inst. with loss of stanchions and bulwarks and deck swept, with damage to her copper and to her boats.

"The Directors of the Buenos Aires Great Southern Railway Co. (Limited) in their report for the year ended with December 31st, state that the gross revenue was £429,748 against £405,300. After providing for all current charges, the interim dividend, debenture interest, and the loss on remittances, the net available balance was £113,711, out of which it is proposed to pay a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent, besides a bonus of 2 per cent.

"The result of the working of the City of Buenos Aires Tramways Co. (Limited) for 1880 was a gross revenue of £108,626 against £105,826. The provision for all charges incidental to the year left £20,634. A dividend of 4s 6d per share is recommended, and £7,000 is to be placed to the contingent fund, raising it to £36,935, leaving £2,384 to be carried forward."

Mr Victor Pechion gives the following in his valuable wheat circular:—"There has been but little done during the fortnight, although many rises and falls were planned and collapsed. In the camp there was a rise when Maderna's house bought some lots. Heavy purchases in Rosario and Santa Fe are spoken of; nevertheless consignees sell off at once all they receive. We believe in a rise but not while bakers and millers are supplied, as they are now. Speculators here do not know how to work together, and have yet to learn more of political economy. In some years, however, we'll astonish Europe with our agricultural productions, after supplying Brazil. In about three months more will be the time to buy. Prices are unchanged. A rise now would injure everyone. Almost no Candeal has arrived, nevertheless Mr Bordoy sold 800 ar. at 195; other small sales at 140-210. Bakers are buying flour slowly, chiefly Santa Fe kinds. Bauman brand sold at 33 and in Rosario at 35 on same day; rivers at 31-33; B. Aires at 36-37. Maize arrivals increasing slowly, but price too high for export. Flax very scarce but great demand. Good class for seed selling at 22. Barley rising."
